CARDINAL DIES IN BALTIMORE

James Cardinal Gibbons Passes Away Today.

ONE OF BEST-KNOWN PRELATES IN THE WORLD

Demise Is Expected Since Late Yesterday.

Cardinal Gibbons Begins Career as an Errand Boy in a New Orleans Grocery Store—Is Made a Cardinal in 1886.

Baltimore, March 24.—James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore and one of the leading Roman Catholic prelates in the whole world, died at the arch episcopal residence here at 11:33 a.m., today.

The venerable prelate's death had been expected since late yesterday afternoon, when he lapsed into a state of coma, from which he did not rally up to the time of his death.

One of the most widely known prelates of the Roman Catholic church, James Cardinal Gibbons, was born in Baltimore, Maryland of Irish parents July 17, 1834. He spent his early boyhood in Ireland, but returned to America at the age of fourteen and became an errand boy for a grocer in New Orleans.

He took up his studies for the priesthood when a mere youth, being ordained in Baltimore at the age of twenty-seven. His religious education was received in the historic St. Charles college in Maryland, the Seminary of St. Sulpice and St. Mary's university in Baltimore.

About the close of the civil war he was appointed private secretary to Archbishop Spalding, and a little later became chancellor of the diocese. In 1866 he became assistant chancellor to the second plenary council at Baltimore.

Became Titular Bishop.

Under a decree by Pope Pius IX. he was transferred some two years later to North Carolina, where he became titular bishop. It has been said that he made the acquaintance of every member of the church in that state. In addition to hundreds of followers of other faiths, visiting virtually every district in the diocese. Among other activities he is credited with having built six churches, established an organization of Sisters of Mercy and founded for them a school for negroes and whites during his stay there.

In 1872 he was assigned to Richmond, where he continued the building activities that had marked his stay in Carolina.

Archbishop Bayley, of the Baltimore diocese, began to take a lively interest in the progressive efforts of the young bishop and named him as one of his counsellors. When the archbishop died Bishop Gibbons was chosen to succeed him. He was forty-three years old when he succeeded to this title, the highest at that time in the Catholic church in this country.

A Cardinal in 1886.

In 1883 Archbishop Gibbons led a delegation of Catholic prelates to Rome and was chosen by Pope Leo XIII, to preside over the third plenary council held the following year. His work in this office of trust and other activities won him appointment as a cardinal in 1886.

The ceremony attending his investiture with the insignia of his high new office took place in his home city of Baltimore and was a very impressive affair. The next year he went to Rome and received the apostolic blessing and election to the College of Cardinals.

Another high light of his brilliant career came in 1888 when he celebrated the centenary of the establishment of the Catholic heirarchy in this country. Following the celebration he convened the first national congress of Catholic laymen.

It was Cardinal Gibbons who laid the cornerstone of the famous Catholic university in Washington, and he was made the chancellor of the institution. One of his greatest distinctions was the honor of being the first American Roman Catholic prelate to participate in the election of a Pope. He voted for Pius X

Active in War.

What was described in the public press at the time as the most momentous ecclesiastical gathering of a generation was the convocation of the Catholic hierarchy at Washington in September of last year. It was the first time since the third plenary council of Baltimore in 1884 that all the archbishops and bishops of the church in the United States had been called together.

Last June the cardinal offered the

BULGARIA IS GOING TO WORK

Idle Rich and Social Butterflies Get Orders.

MUST SERVE STATE ONE DAY A WEEK

Premier Stamboulisky Will Have No Shirkers.

Allies Watching Mobilization of Labor Battalions in Bulgaria. May Be Made Pretext for Another Military Move.

Paris, March 24.—Bulgarian belles—society beauties from old, rich and fashionable families, who had been used to a life of luxury and idleness—will soon have to go to work, whether they want to or not. The "farmer" government of Premier Stamboulisky, at Sofia, is about to enact legislation making work compulsory and according to information received here today, large numbers of Bulgarian social butterflies are planning to leave the country to make their future home abroad. Most of them probably will come to France.

Stamboulisky is preparing to enroll all healthy women not earning their own living in "labor battalions," mobilized under state decrees, like soldiers. Under this scheme, idle women will be compelled to give at least one day free to their country each week. They may nurse in a public hospital, do typing or bookkeeping in government offices, or scrub or cook in government buildings, according to their choice. But, regardless of their social rank, they must work at least twelve hours out of every week.

The plan for the mobilization of women for government service is identical with that contained in laws already in effect, under which every young man in Bulgaria gives at least one day a week free to the state. Stamboulisky's explanation for these "labor battalions" raised a great outcry among the idle rich of Bulgaria, but until recently they have been quite effective. However, representatives of the allied powers have complained that these "labor battalians" might easily become the camouflage for a big military organization in defiance of the treaty of Neuilly and they may be repealed insofar as males are concerned.

The "farmer" government at Sofia anticipates no protest so far as the women are concerned.

In other respects, the original program of the Stamboulisky regime has begun to undergone changes. The government has been forced to ally itself with capitalists to resist Bolshevik elements. A few days ago leading bankers were summoned to a conference where it was announced that no more legislation against industry will be enacted. The bankers had protested that foreign capital was being frightened out of Bulgaria and that they could no longer finance measures for the country's reconstruction.

UNITED STATES IS IN NO HURRY

Will Take Time in Framing Russian Policy.

REPLY TO MOSCOW WILL BE DELAYED

President and Cabinet Proceeding with Caution.

Business Interests in Numerous Quarters Are Urging Resumption of Trade Relations with Russia, Advices Say.

Washington, March 24.—The new administration is going to take its time in answering soviet Russia's appeal for a reestablishment of trade relations, it was strongly indicated today in official circles. Having got along without commercial dealings with Russia for several years, no patricular need for hurry in announcing a Russian policy is felt by those now in command in Washington.

The question of a Russian policy occupied considerable time at Tuesday's cabinet and in all probability will be taken up again by President Harding and his advisers at tomorrow's regular session. At least it was indicated today no reply will be despatched to Moscow until the cabinet has an opportunity to fully examine the communication and leaders in the house and senate have been sounded out.

There is little indication of what trend the American reply will take. But what little there is seems to point to the Moscow appeal being given what might be termed every favorable consideration.

The most immediate result of the soviet communication has been to increase the pressure that is being exerted from many quarters for a resumption of trade relations, at least in name. Labor organizations are nearly unanimous in favoring such a policy. A number of western and mid-western congressmen also believe the soviet offer should be accepted, for they see in Russian markets an outlet for the grains and produce of the great farm belts which are now stagnant in the available markets of the world.

Favor Dealing.

The so-called "progressives" in the senate are staunchly in favor of dealing with Russia. Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, introduced a resolution to this effect, which failed of passage in the last session. Unless there is favorable action by the administration in the meantime, he intends to reintroduce it in the new session, next month.

The most powerful factor in shaping the new policy will be purely economic, it is believed. If the new congress passes a high protective tariff early in the next session, as now appears certain, it is going to have a far-reaching effect on popularity of American products in the markets of the world. America may need all the outlet obtainable for her goods, particularly if the American tariff leads to retaliatory action on the part of some of her best customers, like Argentina.

There apparently is a divergence of opinion among members of the cabinet and students of Russian affairs, generally, on the value of an economic agreement with Russia. Herbert Hoover frankly does not believe that such an agreement would prove very valuable, economically, to the Untied States. He holds that Russia has nothing to export because her productive facilities have been paralyzed for four years and that she has little money with which to make purchases in the markets of the world.

Others—and some of them are members of the Harding cabinet—do not agree with the former food administrator. They see Russia as a vast repository of mineral and vegetable wealth, which only needs the magical touch of exploitation and development to enrich those who get in on the ground floor.

There is little official indication of what the Harding administration plans to do regarding Russia, but it is believed that Lenine's latest appeal has a decidedly more favorable chance of getting somewhere than any he has made hitherto.

Report Is Denied.

Washington, March 24.—Secretary of Labor Davis, today, received a telegram declaring that 150 men have been discharged by Armour & Company, in Chicago, for their attitude in the controversy in the packing industry. The secretary immediately took up the matter with the representatives of the packers, who made a vigorous denial of any such action and assured the secretary that no such action would be taken.

GERMANS GET AN ALLIED NOTE

Notice Given That Indemnity Must Be Paid.

DENIED GERMANY IS UNABLE TO PAY

Full Amount Exacted Under the Versailles Treaty.

French Papers Declare the Time Is at Hand To Enforce Direst Penalties on the Germans. May Add New Penalties.

Paris, March 24.—The Interallied reparations commission today handed to the German embassy a note refusing to accept the German contention that Germany is incapable of paying the indemnity demanded by the entente under the terms of the treaty of Versailles.

The allies sent a note to Germany demanding 1,000,000,000 gold marks before March 24. At the same time, the allies contended that Germany still owes 12,000,000,000 gold marks of the 20,000,000,000 gold marks she was to pay to the allies before May 1, 1921, under the terms of the treaty of Versailles. Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister, had declared at the London conference that Germany has already paid this 20,000,000,000 gold marks in money and goods.

The reparations committee has sent a long communication to the allied government containing recommendations for further sanctions or penalties.

"The moment has come for new and decisive sanctions," said the Matin in discussing the new indemnity situation.

"Pertinax," the well-informed political editor of the Echo de Paris, understands that decisive conversations are about to be opened between Germany and the allies, wherein the allies will suppress new sanctions.

"If necessary, we will advance into the very heart of the German empire," said Le Figaro. This newspaper quoted Marshal Foch as saying:

"We shall only obtain from Germany what we go and take by force."

RAILWAY LABOR BOARD HEARING

B. M. Jewell Is on Witness Stand Today.

SUBMITS RECORD OF FEDERATED SHOPMEN

Not an Authorized Strike Called Since 1912.

Jewell Claims Separate Agreements with Railway Companies Will Be Costly Move. Some Figures Given.

Chicago, March 24.—Since the organization of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor, in 1912, not a single authorized strike of federated shopcrafts employes has been called, B. M. Jewell, president of the department, told the United States railway labor board, today. Jewell was presenting arguments in support of labor's side of the controversy over national rules and working agreements.

Jewell also declared that abrogation of the national agreements and the negotiation of separate rules and working conditions on each individual railroad would cost the workers more than $6,000,000 and require the services of 5,000 men.

"During the years prior to 1912," said Jewell, "there was hardly a period when some of the members of one or all of the federated shopcraft organizations were not on strike in their efforts to secure from the railway managements just and reasonable wages and working conditions. It is significant that since 1912, the date when the railway employes' department was organized, there has not been a single authorized strike of federated shopcraft employes.

Progress Made.

"It is significant, also, that during this same period great progress toward the attainment of just and reasonable wages and working conditions was made."

Jewell declared that there are 455,776 railroad shop employes in the United States and that 445,000 of them are actual members of their craft organizations. He claimed the right of the organizations to represent all employes eligible to membership in the respective craft organizations on all railroads, regardless of membership or non-membership.

Organizations comprising the federated shopcrafts, Jewell asserted, had 267 agreements which were effective prior to October 20, 1919. These many agreements, he asserted, now have been superseded by the present national agreement.

Jewell answered the contention of General W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania system, that the national agreements were costing the railroads millions of dollars in "waster money" annually, by declaring that "an agreement applying alike to all railroads will be a great factor in assisting to establish efficient and economical railroad operation."

Jewell contended such an agreement would remove the costly "labor turnover" which he declared is due to the fact that wages and conditions of employment on one road may be more favorable than on another.

In negotiating separate aggreements with each of the 167 roads that are parties to the national agreement, Jewell declared, the services of 5,168 committeemen would be required. The daily expense of maintaining these committees, he asserted, would be $65,760 and if ninety days were required to complete the agreements the expense would be $5,918,442.

Jewell's statement was voluminous and indications were that he would not be able to complete its presentation today.

POLICE SEARCH FOR MURDERER

Most Vigorous Man Hunt in Chicago in Years.

UNDERWORLD FIGURE SLAYS AN OFFICER

Five Other Officers Are with Victim at Time of Shooting, but Killer Escapes.

Chicago, March 24. — The most vigorous man hunt the Chicago police have engaged in years is under way, with "Tommy" O'Conner, for several years an underworld figure here as the object of the search. O'Connor is wanted for killing Detective Sergeant Patrick "Paddy" O'Neill, the "gamest man on the force."

A host of "Paddy" O'Neill's fellow officers have vowed that O'Conner will pay for the slaying of the officer.

O'Connor shot O'Neill from the rear porch of the home of the slayer's sister, Mrs. William Foley. O'Neill and five other officers had gone there to arrest O'Conner for jumping his bond as a witness in the slaying of "Jimmy" Cherin, a notorious underworld character and pal of O'Conner's. Despite the fact that five other officers were nearby when the shooting occurred, O'Conner leaped over the back yard fence and escaped. Twenty minutes later, he leaped on the running board of an automobile driven by W. R. Condon and forced Condon to drive him to the outskirts of the city.

Rewards totaling $2,000 have been offered for O'Conner's capture.

MARTIAL LAW IS PROCLAIMED

Hamburg Is Being Patrolled by Troops.

BLOODSHED FOLLOWS COMMUNIST RISING

Fifty Killed in Clashes, the Reports Say.

Communists Also Battle with the Police at Eiselbeden—The Mob Is Victorious—Effort Made To Disarm Police.

Berlin, March 24.—Martial law has been proclaimed at Hamburg as a result of the Communist rising and Senator Heise has been appointed dictator, said a despatch from that city today.

Fifty persons were reported to have been killed in clashes, while the Communists were occupying shipyards and attacking government buildings at Hamburg.

Four men were killed and twelve were wounded when workmen attempted to disarm the police at the Vulcan shipyards.

A mob used stones, beer bottles and pieces of metal as missiles to attack the police in the center of Hamburg. During the disorder shots were fired from a nearby building wounding some of the policemen.

The police then opened fire, killing and wounding over fifteen persons.

Five persons were wounded in a riot in the Holstedplatz. Riots were reported from other parts of Hamburg as well.

Many persons were killed and wounded when Communists armed with rifles and revolvers and hand grenades, gave battle to the police at Eiselben. The mob was victorious. The police took refuge in a barricated building while the mob began pillaging grocery and meat store and banks. The ringleaders of the mob sent an ultimatum to the police demanding their surrender and the surrender of all their arms. The mob leaders threatened to burn the city if the ultimatum was not accepted.

Train Held Up.

A passenger train from Halle was held up and seized by the Communists at Eisleben. The Communist disorders were reported spreading.

The strike movement was growing and behind and all over hung the black menace of a political revolt. Plundering, sabotage, death by violence and dynamite outrages were reported from numerous towns in middle Germany.

Alarmist despatches were printed in the Berlin newspapers. It was declared that the Communist uprising was begun on direct orders from Moscow.

The Communist chieftains have ordered a general strik throughout all central Germany to tie up industry and the railways.

The government is worried over the outlook and measures are being taken to combat the menace.

Fire dynamite outrages were reported from Saxony, a Communist stronghold. The city hall at Rodewisch was blown up and half of it was destroyed.

A bomb was exploded in the city hall at Auerbach.

The court-house at Leipsig, where the trial of German war criminals is scheduled to open, May 1, was damaged by an explosion of dynamite.

Two bombs were thrown against the superior court building at Dresden.

Battle Sounds.

The sound of battle rang through the streets of Eisleben for hours. Part of the railway lines were torn up. Miners, who had refused to obey the strike command, were driven from the pits by force.

Trains were derailed near Hettstedt and Amsendorf and more than half a dozen persons were injured.

Hugo Haase, former plenipotentiary handle in Russia, is reported "on the outbreak."

Two Communist organs, "Rote Fahne," in Berlin and the "Volkszeitung," in Rhineland, print proclamations in bold language calling upon the workers throughout Germany to arm themselves "to overthrow the bourgeoise government so that a dictatorship of the proletariat can be established."

Herr Weismann, director of public safety in Berlin, expressed the opinion that the movement would collapse before it could become serious in this city, but nevertheless he took strong precautionary measures to meet trouble. Guards were established to frustrate any attempt to

GREAT BRITAIN MAY TAKE HAND

May Be Asked To Extradite Grover Bergdoll.

BERGDOLL VIOLATES BRITISH PASSPORT

Fugitive Could Be Extradited from England by the United States, It Is Believed.

Washington, March 24.—Great Britain may be asked to take steps to secure the apprehension and return of Grover C. Bergdoll, American draft dodger, now in Germany, it was hinted today.

Secretary of War Weeks stated, today, that Bergdoll admits violating a British passport in fleeing from Canada to Germany and intimated that this nation may seek to have Great Britain extradite Bergdoll from Germany.

If Bergdoll were taken to Great Britain on charges of violating a passport, the United States might then make a request for his extradition to the United States on charges of evading the draft law, it was stated that at the present time, with the United States a war, this nation can not make a request for the extradition of Bergdoll, but Great Britain, being at peace with Germany, may do so.

The United States will press its efforts to secure the release of Carl Neat and Frank Zimmer, Americans held in Germany for attempting to kidnap Bergdoll, Secretary Weeks said. The secretary predicted that this government will take definite and persistent action to secure the release of these two men.

HOUSE WOULD TAKE RECESS

Splits with Senate on Time for Adjournment.

BUCKEYE SOLONS UNABLE TO AGREE

Governor Davis Talks of Situation—Proceedings of Ohio General Assembly.

Columbus, March 24.—House Floor Leader Crabbe announced that the house would recess next Wednesday until April 11, or "until such time as the senate catches up, when the house chamber will be notified to return for a week or ten days to close up all unfinished business."

The senate construed this to mean that the house had run out of work. So it skipped on its calendar all house bills and passed only senate bills, in order to give the house some work to do.

Mr. Crabbe said he tried to get Senate Leader Whittemore to agree to a resolution to adjourn sine die April 25, but failed.

Representative Correll, of Carroll introduced as an amendment measure a bill giving the state highway commissioner extensive power in improvement of an east and west highway through the state and another connecting Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati.

Governor Davis announced he had not received the promised "round robin" of senators in opposition to the emergency clause to the reorganization bill. In a statement the governor says:

"It had been claimed that this 'round robin' would be signed by many senators. It appears now with the signature of but one—Senator Burke.

"Naturally we are not alarmed at this opposition. The Republican party has pledged itself for reorganization and we propose to see that those pledges to the people are carried out in letter and in spirit at the earliest possible time.

"It should be recalled, for a proper understanding of Senator Burke's opposition to the emergency, which he now asserts deprives the people of their rights, that he voted for an emergency clause on one of the first bills enacted by the present general assembly, and worked actively for it. What he professes now is clearly inconsistent with what he professed and acted on but a few weeks ago. His stand at that time is a direct challenge to his present arguments. I favored the emergency clause in the Miller bill, which he also supported. I am for an emergency clause as well in the present case."

MAMMOTH SIX-WHEEL TRUCK DETAINED TODAY

But Investigation Discloses Law Is Not Violated.

A large six-wheel automobile truck of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, enroute from Akron to Columbus, was detained in Marion this afternoon to weigh the vehicle and ascertain whether the truck and load exceed the weight permitted by law without a permit from the count surveyor. William E. Weston, county engineer, had the truck weighed and when it was found the vehicle and load weighed nine tons it was permitted to proceed.

The truck stopped in front of the court-house and a crowd gathered around it The body is of steel and there are six wheels fitted with eight-inch pneumatic tires. Some of the spectators did not hesitate to express their disapproval of permitting such a heavy vehicle to travel over the roads.

Signs printed on the side of the body state the vehicle weighs 10,00 pounds and carries a normal load of 10,000 pounds. It was said that the truck carries about 6,500 pounds of tires. The law provides that no vehicle and load exceeding a maximum of twelve tons can travel over an improved highway without a permit from the county engineer.

DEVICE SHOWS THE AMOUNT OF WATER IN MILK

Dr Julius Hovert, Minnesota, state chemist, who has perfected a device known as the cryoscope by means of which it can be determined just what percentage of water has been added to milk The continual increase in the cost of milk has added to the temptation of putting water in it, but Dr. Hovert's device is sure to make the milkman fear the pump. Until the invention of this new testing apparatus, which is based on the principle of the freezing-point test, no suitable method of detecting dishonest milk dealers had been thought out

LAST BASKET-BALL TILT OF THE SEASON

So Far as High School Is Concerned.

[BY FRANK D. WEEKS.]

Saturday night the Harding High basket ball five will play a decisive game with Galion, which will determine the standing of both teams in the North Central Ohio league title race The game was scheduled for Friday night and all advertising was carried out accordingly, but due to Galion's inability to play on that date the contest will be staged a day later.

Galion is at present leading the league and a victory will cinch the honors for them and will give the locals third place. On the other hand if the Marionites win it will bring about a triangular tie for first place between Galion, Mansfield and Marion This is the first time in the history of the league that the honors have been so closely contested and consequently a great amount of interest and spirit has been aroused over the affair

The game will undoubtedly be one of championship caliber. Both teams are about evenly matched, the locals, of course having the advantage of the home floor Local practice this week has been snappy and exceedingly hard A number of ex-high school basketeers home from college for the spring vacation, have very patriotically turned out for practice and have aided considerably in getting the locals in fighting trim. The team is showing up true to form and it is believed that they will be in the pink of condition when the opening whistle blows

It is to be remembered that this is the last game of the season and will likewise be the final opportunity for local followers of the sport to witness Knachel and Phillians, who are lost by graduation this year and will play their last game tonight It is also the last time on the floor for the three senior substitutes, Durr, Mowhorter and Weeks. These players will certainly do all in their power to make their last battle for their school a victorious one. Without a doubt the battle will be a glorious and a pretty one and should not be lacking in ample sport for local fans. Galion is bringing a crowd of over two hundred people and it is up to the Marionites directly concerned to turn out and back their outfit to limit if victory may result.

The game will be called promptly at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. gym.

Practically all the camphor in the world comes from a single island, the island of Formosa, situated off the coast of China. It is said that an average camphor tree, twelve feet in circumference at its base, will yield enough camphor at present prices to bring its owner $7,500. When a tree is felled every bit of the wood is preserved and reduced to chips. These chips are placed in a retort above water which is kept boiling by a fire built beneath. The vapor which rises contains the camphor, which is condensed into the solid white mass we all know.

AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

Recommended in Report to Ohio Tax Committee.

PROVIDES A LIMIT ON PROPERTY TAXES

Property Exempt Where Income Derived from It Is Taxed Under Proposed Law.

Columbus, March 24.—A proposed taxation amendment to the state constitution is recommended in a report submitted, today, by a subcommittee to the full house taxation committee The proposed amendment provides for the exemption of property from taxation when the income from such property is taxed under a general state income tax law that provides for the imposition of a limit on taxes which may be levied without a vote of the people

Under the proposed amendment, laws would be passed observing the uniform rule of taxation. All moneys credits, investments in bonds stocks, joint stock companies, or otherwise and all real and personal property would be taxed according to their true value in money. But any property, the income derived from which is taxed under a general state income tax law, would be wholly or partially exempted from taxation under the uniform rule

General laws could be enacted exempting from taxation, also, burying grounds, public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions used exclusively for charitable purposes and household goods, to an amount not exceeding $500 in value for each individual.

Aggregate Rate.

The aggregate rate of taxation on property, including any state rates, would not exceed twelve mills outside of municipalities, nor fifteen mills within municipality or corporation, but laws could be passed authorizing additional rates to be levied in any taxing district for specific purposes and periods upon approval of a majority of those voting at a regular November election in such district No state tax in excess of one mill could be levied on property

The state legislature could provide for county board of appointment to secure the equitable distribution of tax moneys between the taxing subdivisions. Such board could be elected or composed of persons holding any designated county municipal or school-board offices within the county.

Representative Freeman, Hardin county, chairman, stated that the house taxation committee plans holding a public hearing, Monday night on the proposed amendment and expects to introduce it in the house Tuesday. It is expected that the house will pass it, Wednesday.

INTEREST IS INTENSIFIED

Developments of Day in the Stillman Case.

MRS. STILLMAN FILES AN ANSWER

Makes Specific Charges Against Her Husband, Alleging Intimacy with a Woman.

New York, March 24.—Interest in the now famous Stillman double-divorce action was intensified today when it was reported Mrs Anne U Potter Stillman had come to New York and taken personal charge of her case against her husband James A. Stillman, president of the National City bank. All hopes on the part of friends that the sensational charges and counter-charges might be kept secret, or dropped, were blasted through the accusation in open court, at White Plains, by Mr Stillman's attorneys, that Mrs. Stillman, "a gentlewoman, took as her lover an Indian guide" and that Guy, her youngest son, was not the legitimate issue of her marriage with Stillman

Mrs. Stillman immediately retaliated by filing with Justice Morschauser an amended answer to her husband's suit In it, she submitted six affidavits detailing specific instances of alleged intimacy between her husband and Florence Lawler, a former chorus girl, more frequently referred to in the Stillman divorce case as Mrs Florence Leeds

Most sensational among the fresh charges brought by Delancey Nicoll chief counsel for the banker, was the assertion that Mrs. Stillman "in a moment of hysteria had confessed her guilt."

Shortly before little Guy was born it is charged, Mrs Stillman wrote a letter to her husband, which the latter's attorneys profess to interpret as a confession of criminal intimacy between her and the Indian guide.

Mrs. Stillman flatly denies that she ever wrote such a confession

Mrs Stillman, in her counter-accusing answer, made categorical denial of old and all new charges and declared solemnly under oath that she had had no improper relations with anyone at any time.

Hints were made by Mrs Stillman's attorneys that other women will be named in addition to Mrs Leede, as having had improper relations with her husband.

ENGLAND FAILS IN OBLIGATION

Makes No Effort To Pay for American Property.

SHIPS AND CARGOES SEIZED DURING WAR

Great Britain Promises To Pay Claims Against Her, According to Records.

Washington, March 24.—Although Great Britian declared at the outset of the World war an intention to "make compensation to persons whose ships or cargoes were wrongfully detained by the British authorities" she has yet to so compensate American vessel owners, it was revealed today, by a further examination of the state department's correspondence with the British foreign office regarding American claims against the British, now being examined by the senate foreign-relations committee.

Destruction of American property, including mail matter, by the British without notice to either its owners or the American consul general at London, as one basis for repeated protests by the state department to Downing street, at a time when the United States and Great Britian were associated in the World war, it was also disclosed.

September 25, 1917, the American consul general at London informed the state department that numerous complaints from Americans had been received by him, which, upon careful investigation, showed that American goods seized by the British as a "war measure," had been "summarily disposed of" by the British prize courts "with such speed as to deprive their owners of an opportunity to consider or take part in negotiations for their release."

Destroy Parcels.

The British went so far as to destroy American parcels mailed in the United States, bearing United States stamps and postmarks without giving those to whom they were addressed an opportunity to claim them.

Colby's note, made public today, said:

"During the period of neutrality and subsequent belligerency of this government, it did not seem appropriate to press for an adjustment of claims for losses—by Americans. I should be pleased to know if his majesty's government now desires to initiate proceedings for mutual adjustment and satisfaction of all such claims."

Republican members of the senate foreign-relations committee indicated today that further inquiry by them showed that the British government has not yet given a final and definite answer to the state department note and is still engaged in silently evading the issue raised repeatedly by the state department, both before, during and after American participation in the World war.

True blue is a term that isn't applicable to milk.

prayer which opened one of the liveliest sessions of the Republican national convention at Baltimore.

Cardinal Gibbons was active in many ways during the World war and the utterances to which he gave voice from time to time proved a big factor in cementing the interests of the nation to the end of making common cause against the enemy. He had been just as outspoken in his views since peace was declared.

"If the members of the Red organization don't like this country let them go home," is one widely-quoted recent utterance of the great prelate.

With Secretary of War Baker Cardinal Gibbons was named a few months ago as a member of the national advisory committee for the $10,000,000 Palestine restoration fund campaign which the Zionist organization of America promoted.

Foe of Divorce.

Some of the cardinal's most recent utterances have been directed against the spreading divorce evil. He has repeatedly urged the women of his church to "maintain the sanctity of the home" and exert every effort to check the divorce evil.

To the very last the cardinal was an opponent of woman suffrage and only last May he warned the women of his church against being active in politics at the risk of injury to their homes.

"Your are the queens of the domestic kingdom," he told them. "Do not stain your garments with the soil of the political arena."

After the amendment was adopted, however, the cardinal advised all women to vote.

He was an advocate of universal military training and was a great admirer of the Boy Scout movement.

The cardinal had been ill for several months.

A Long Illness.

The death of the cardinal was due to a general breakdown which had been superinduced by a heavy cold and which first became pronounced while the prelate was delivering a sermon at Havre de Grace, Maryland, December 12, last. Following the attack, Cardinal Gibbons went to the home of Thomas Shriver, a lifelong friend, at Union Mills, Maryland, for a rest and an attempt at recuperation. His condition, despite the best medical and personal attention, grew worse and at the beginning of the New Year, the life of the cardinal was despaired of by his close associates and his legion of friends.

He was brought back to his own home in Baltimore, early in January and about two weeks later, showed symptoms of improvement. So much did the cardinal show signs of returning strength, that he was allowed to take almost daily automobile drives.

These outings continued up until last Sunday.

The cardinal was again stricken, Sunday and he was immediately returned to his bed.

Heart Is Weak.

At that time, his heart action became alarmingly weak and his temperature fell to a serious degree. Since that time, his personal physician, Dr. Charles O'Donavan, has been in almost constant attendance, but it was felt that the cardinal could not again manifest the remarkable recuperative powers which he showed several months ago.

Because of the cardinal's extreme frailty and his advanced age, all preparations were made for the end. Monsignor John Bonzano, apostolic delegate at Washington, came to Baltimore and spent the larger part of Tuesday at the cardnal's home; Bishop Owen B. Corrigan, the vicar general of the diocese, had spent a great part of his time at his eminence's bedside for several days. The public was informed of the change in the condition of the most distinguished clergyman of the Catholic church in the United States, late Tuesday.

The first evidence of the failure of Cardinal Gibbons' strength was noted late last year, when he was at Havre de Grace. At that time he was seized with a momentary faintness and seemed about to fall while delivering a sermon.

December 31, Bishop Corrigan issued a statement to all pastors, asking them to request their people to pray for the cardinal's recovery or his happy death. The cardinal was anointed for the second time, the first time having been two weeks earlier. It was thought by those most intimately associated with him that he would never be able to leave the Shriver home. In this illness, however, he manifsted the same resolution which he had shown all his life and he surprised his friends not only be recovering sufficient strength to make the trip by motor to his residence in Baltimore, January 3, but once there, grew stronger.

Throws a Shadow.

The cardinal subsequently made frequent short motor trips in the city and its environs and moved about his residence in a wheel chair. He never recovered sufficient strength, however, to take again into his own hands the administration of his duties as the executive head of the archdiocese of Baltimore and his many other duties in connection with the church. For three months the members of his household guarded him against any experience which might exhaust his frail strength. Only his own resolution made it possible for him to get about again, as he did after his return from the Shriver home.

The cardinal's death was expected to throw a shadow of additional gloom and sorrow over Holy week for the millions of members of his own faith, as well as among the thousands of friends he had made and held in all walks of life.

The trouble had not yet spread to Bavaria at the time this despatch was written, although Bavaria had previously been described as a hotbed of Communists. Disarmament has not yet been put in effect in Bavaria and the government at Munich still has the support of the civic guard to maintain order. The Munich government reported that it had the situation well in hand, Wednesday.

Leaders of the Social Democrats and the trade unions have warned their followers against joining in any general strike.

Berlin Quiet.

Berlin, March 24.—Heavy guards of Security police are patrolling Berlin. This city was still quiet, this morning. The Communists have called a mass-meeting for Thursday, to take action to support the Bolshevist sympathizers in middle Germany. An attempt will be made to bring about a general strike, it is said. It is reported that a despatch from Moscow, asking when a "Red" revolution in central Europe could be started on a big scale, has been intercepted.

Herr Weismann, director of public safety, announced that he had received word that Hoelz, a former picturesque bandit, had been arrested near Mansfeld while leading a band of plunderers. Hoelz had previously been reported attempting to bring about a general strike in support of the Communist movement. He was leader of the Plauen uprising last year.

The Revival at Epworth.

Every night there is manifested a deepening interest in spiritual things under the fearless preaching of Dr. George Hugh Birney at the Epworth M. E. church. His theme last night "The Suicide of the Soul," was built squarely upon the familiar scriptural text, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation?"

By many a carefully-selected illustration Dr. Birney showed his audience how men in all generations have striven in every conceivable way to escape from self, from conscience, from sin, and from death concluding convincingly, "there is no escape from these four great accusers of the human soul." Equally convincing was his description of God's plan of escape and salvation in His great sacrificial gift of His Son upon Calvary, whereby He desires that no man shall be lost, but that all shall be saved

"But all any man needs to do in order to be eternally lost," said Dr Birney in closing, "is just to neglect this great provision. Neglect, neglect, on, the tragedy of the human lives, just drifting slowly but surely to eternal death when the great way of escape has been provided."

In answer to the altar call almost a score of people came quickly to a decision and gathered about the altar.

Dr. Birney will speak tonight on the subject, "In the Garden of God."

First United Brethren Church.

At the First United Brethren church last evening, Dr. O. F. Laughbaum spoke on the text, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?" "Neglect is the key word of the text. We see the sad results of neglect everywhere. How shall we escape? Repent, believe, confess and obey," Dr. Laughbaum said

Services will be held at 7:30 this evening, with sermon subject, "The Crucifixion." This will close the special services until Sunday when an Easter service will be conducted with reception of members and the Easter offering, closing the day with a cantata by the choir at 7 o'clock in the evening.

At St. Mary's Church.

Rev. Father Joseph M. Denning celebrated a solemn high mass this morning at 7:45 o'clock at St. Mary's church in commemoration of the institution of the Holy Eucharist. Rev. Father Denning was assisted by Rev. Richard McGinty and Thomas Kearns as deacons, and about seventy acolytes. Following a procession through the church the Blessed Sacrament was placed on a side altar where it will remain until Easter. Services consisting of the rosary and benediction will be held at the church this evening.

At St. Paul's Episcopal.

Maundy Thursday, or the birthday of the Blessed Sacrament, was observed today at St. Paul's Episcopal church with services at 7, 9:30 and from 10:30 to 4:15 o'clock. The services from 10:30 to 4.15 were continuous the members of the congregation taking turns fifteen minute intervals of prayer before the sacrament.

SAXONY DECLARED UNDER MARTIAL LAW

President Ebert Takes Action in Communist Rioting.

Berlin, March 24. — President Ebert, of Germany, today declared Saxony in a state of martial law as a result of Communist rioting. Martial law is being administered by civilian officials instead of military.

President Hoersing, of the Saxon ministry, is negotiating with the Communists. The Communists were informed that they will be given "no concessions."

Are Ejected.

London, March 24.—The Communists at Hamburg have been ejected from all the industrial property they seized yesterday, except the Blohm and Voss shipyards, where they now are besieged by police, said a Central News despatch from Berlin, this afternoon.

TOLL-GATE METHOD IS ADVOCATED BY WHYSALL

Addressing the Noon Luncheon Meeting of the Kiwanis.

WHO ADOPT RESOLUTION FOR HARDING HIGHWAY

Meeting in Keeping with Holy Week—Program Has a Religious Touch.

Maintenance of improved highways through some such system as the old toll gate method was advocated by George Whysall at the weekly noon luncheon of the Marion Kiwanis club in the private dining room of the Busy Bee cafeteria today. Mr. Whysall, chairman of the good-roads committee of the organization, voiced this sentiment after the club had unanimously adopted his resolution endorsing the objects and purposes of the Harding Highway association in seeking to have improved the main market road from Galion through Caledonia, Marion and Kenton to Lima.

"This highway is one of national importance, because it leads to the birthplace and through the home city of the president of the United States," the resolution stated and in addition it urges the state highway commissioner to do all he can toward improving the highway.

Little Said About Maintenance.

"We all hear about construction these days," Mr. Whysall said, "but we hear very little said about maintenance. The question that has occurred to me is how long the people who pay for the roads will continue their payments unless some method is devised toward maintenance of the improved roads.

"The highways are used by the people of adjoining states, as well as the residents of our own community, and they pay nothing whatever toward maintaining the roads. Heavily-loaded trucks go over the roads and if they reach a place where there is mud they put on power chains to pull them through, then leave the chains on the wheels and do great damage to the next stretch of improved road they travel over.

"If toll gates were established we would have a representative on hand to see that the trucks are not overloaded that the highways are not injured and the men with the heavy truck helps to pay for maintenance."

Largely Religious.

Today's Kiwanis program in keeping with holy week, was largely religious. The "silent hour" was provided by Dr. Jesse Swank and Rev. M. L. Buckley and consisted of two pocket Bibles awarded to Grant E. Mosser Jr., and Carl Weitrous. Rev. George M. Landis who is conducting a series of meetings at Trinity Baptist church, spoke. A religious song was sung.

Henry Raffensperger, who recently returned from a trip to the Orient told interestingly of Chinese banquet customs.

G. W. Jakeway announced that a movement is on foot to provide free garden lots for unemployed persons in Marion this summer and asked that those who have lots they do not intend using list them with O. H. Carrier, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Jakeway stated that the chamber of commerce, Employers' association, Retail Merchants' bureau, Kiwanis club and Y. M. C. A. are back of the movement.

"Business is picking up, especially in the steel industry," Mr. Jakeway said, and added that he hoped to see business booming again soon. "But this is something we can not guarantee, and if any of you have lots you do not intend to use, we will see that they are placed among worthy persons for gardening purposes."

CAN ACT ALL PARTS IN THIRTY PLAYS

Miss Guy MacLaren.

Miss Guy MacLaren is known as the "girl with the camera mind." This wonderful young woman has memorized and can act all parts in thirty plays without having studied a piece of manuscript. All she does is to attend four or five performances of a production, making mental pictures of each character and every situation.

An Easy Find.

Martins Ferry, March 24.—After aiding his fellow officers on the local police force in a half-day hunt for a man who had been annoying residents by continual begging, Patrolman Ellwood Rothermund sat down to his noonday lunch at home. A few minutes later, a man appeared at his door and asked for under clothing. Rothermund told him it was warm where he was going and that he wouldn't need the underclothing. The officer took him to jail.

Crusade Begun.

Sistersville, W. Va., March 24.—After a nine-year-old lad won seven dollars in one day with the "galloping dominoes," the local women's club adopted resolutions urging a crusade against gambling, especially gambling by young boys.

Named Director.

Bellaire, March 24.—John Orin of this place, has been named athletic director for the Akron Y. M. C. A. boy's camp next summer. He is a son of Rev. J. V. Orin, pastor of the First M. E. church.

Frank Wiedemann, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wiedemann, of Pearl street, who is attending Ohio Northern university, is at home for the Easter vacation.

OHIO FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick, Director of Press

Convention at Van Wert.

Van Wert is to be the hostess city for the annual spring conference of the Northeast district April 19 and 20. This announcement has just been made by Mrs. Charles Hess, Fostoria, district vice president.

For the Middle East district conference at New Philadelphia, April 12 and 13, dates having previously been announced, Mrs. G. W. Hixson, Cambridge, district vice president, announces that the opening session will be at 1:30 p. m. in the Bronx hall where all sessions are to be held. In the evening a musicale will be given by representatives from all the clubs of the district under the direction of Miss Helen Virgie Martins Ferry, music chairman of the Middle East district. A reception will follow for Mrs. William H. Sharp Columbus state federation president, and other Ohio officers and guests. The morning program Wednesday will open promptly at 9:15 o'clock.

A Popular Study Now

Mrs. J. B. Laughry, Elyria, state chairman of the home economics committee, has arranged a program "with an eye single to the aim of promoting among homemakers a wider and more scientific knowledge of the material needs of the family. Her plan is based on the belief that first, homemaking is a definite vocation; second, study of the home as an institution, third, women must be educated and trained for this vocation, fourth, the increase in number of home economic departments in schools, fifth, study and support of bills before congress relating to the vocation of homemaking and allied subjects and endorsed by the state and general federations.

Youngstown Wideawake.

Plans for future activities at Youngstown ought to furnish splendid ideas for club women everywhere. Better housing finding out how the other half lives, supervision and regulation of dance halls, improving social conditions generally, more settlement houses for Americanization and group social work, better health safeguards, sanitary conditions of the city, a full-time health officer—these are only a few of the many movements inaugurated and to be inaugurated by Youngstown club women. They say that with the help of other philanthropic and welfare organizations they mean to see that better moving pictures are shown in their city. Youngstown has fifty clubs with a total membership of 3,000.

Ohio Federated Ites.

Kent has a new club. It is the Woman's club and was organized March 7 with sixty-four members. The charter list will number 100. It is a departmental club.

Cleveland boasts of 40,000 club women.

Lakewood federation has opened a day nursery.

The district convention at Kent unanimously endorsed house bill No. 14 prohibiting immoral and crime-suggesting moving pictures.

Parliamentary club work particularly is appealing now. Cleveland has a parliamentary law club. Many of the clubs of the Forest City put the membership fee for their presidents to become members of the parliamentary club. Mrs. Corse S. Selover, Cleveland, parliamentarian for the state federation, is a member. Mrs. Selover wants every club in the state to give at least fifteen minutes of its program next year to a discussion of parliamentary law.

A special outline has been prepared on American citizenship by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, general federation chairman of the citizenship committee. Copies may be procured free by communicating with general federation headquarters, Maryland building, Washington.

CITY IN BRIEF

One Building Permit—A building permit was issued Wednesday afternoon to V. M. Dutton for a residence addition on Bellevue avenue. The estimated cost is $300.

Garage Broken Into—The garage at the Marion Packing company's plant was broken into Wednesday night and a battery from one of the trucks and some oil were taken. The burglary was reported to the police this morning.

Feast of Purim—The Feast of Purim was celebrated by the local Congregation of Israel, Wednesday evening, at the congregation's rooms in the I. O. O. F. hall. Henry Strelitz conducted the services. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Kleinmaier will entertain the children of the Sabbath school at a masquerade party at their home on south State street, this evening, in celebration of the feast.

Sophomore Inter-Nos—The first regular meeting of the Sophomore inter-nos was held last evening at the Harding High school building. An interesting program was given consisting of "The Dress of Roman Women," by Miss Geneva Miller; "The Dress of Roman Men," by Miss Ester Williaman; 'Accessories of Roman Women," by Miss Anne McClure, and "Accessories of Roman Men," by Miss Pauline Davis. The first two numbers were given in the Roman costume.

Hospital Architect Employed—The board of commissioners of the Marion City hospital, Wednesday afternoon, visited the hospital with Vernon Redding an architect from Mansfield, and employed him to make the necessary repairs to the building and also the changes suggested by the state industrial commission. Mr. Redding has had considerable experience in hospital construction, having erected a number over the state. The local board went over the proposed changes and repairs with him and he started the work today.

Ellsworth Carey Fined—Ellsworth Carey, of Agosta was fined one dollar and costs in Justice G. Farr Earle's court Wednesday evening on a charge of trespassing on the Big Four railroad. He was arrested by two special railroad detectives after he boarded a fast freight train. He pleaded guilty. He stated he intended to ride out into the country to see a boy friend. Detectives asserted there has been considerable complaint recently of merchandise being stolen from this train, which operates between Chicago and New York.

Back from Columbus—W. H. Holverstott returned Wednesday evening from Columbus, where he attended a conference of representatives of the Harding Highway association with the governor and state highway commissioner relatives to securing state aid for the Harding highway. There were representatives from Lima, Kenton, Galion, Caledonia and Marion at the conference. No promise of immediate aid was secured, as the money for road building is being diverted to three other main market highways in the state. One of these is the Delaware-Bucyrus road through Marion, another known as main market highway No. 3, in the northern part of the state, and the third is the Dixie highway.

Harding Hi-Y Club—The following new members were enrolled at the meeting of the Harding Hi-Y club Wednesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. building: Elmon Starr, Daniel Brickley, Raymond Donough, John Merchant and LeMoyne Cook. Following a brief Bible discussion talks were made by the members of the advisory committee, Roy A. Wagner, K. H. Marshall and C. O. Bender. The talks were relative to the club work and the committee's relation as an advisory board. The membership in the club is not limited to Y. M. C. A. members but is open to any member of the three upper classes of the Harding High school. The purpose of the club is to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. The club offers no privileges, but an opportunity for service.

FUSSY HATS AND HIGH HEELS BAD FORM, GIRLS!

Now 'Twill Be Easier To Make Both Ends Meet.

It will be easier for the well-dressed woman to make both ends meet this spring.

Hats will be flatter. Heels will be shorter.

No towering effects in headgear this year say milliners.

Nearly an inch is being chopped off high bees say the footwear experts.

Fetching effects in turbans and stunning styes that throw softening tints close to the forehead will be the very best form, according to those who presume to speak upon a subject so delicate as feminine headgear.

"Habie Lou" heels are one of the effects in footwear. These are really diminutive high heels. They are shaped just the same except they are shorter. Where heels used to elevate their wearers more than two inches above the floor, the very highest 1921 models will lack fully half an inch so great elevation.

English walking heels are also popular, dealers say. They are similar to those found on most all masculine shoes. The shoe men say two-thirds of the women now demand low heels.

They are much more comfortable, the ladies say. And they are so comforting, too, for the tall women, 'cause low heels make 'em seem shorter.

RINGING SNEEZES, SPRINGING BREEZES

Weather, Good and Bad, Like Different Cheeses.

Ringing sneezes close on the trail of springing breezes—that seems to be the aftermath of the kind of weather being dished up by the weatherman just now.

Thoughts of spring and fishing trips one day and thoughts of coal bills and warm homes the next—that's it, isn't it?

Bright sunshine one day and dark and gloomy the next—that's about the way it has been ever since the world began, hasn't it? Don't know? Well, one would naturally suspect as much, wouldn't he?

Anyhow, there's this eye relief—they're not wearing galooshes any more. But they are still wearing woolen hose.

Frogs are croaking, and so everybody ought to know who gets out where the frogs live that spring is here, not in name only, but in real reality.

Of course, it rained today, but it wasn't cold, and the rains are as necessary in March as they are in April, although they are not always as welcome as the flowers in May.

Cheer up, ye that are downcast and want to blame it on the weather—just look how many days and weeks all earthbound folk are ahead of the weather game so far this year!

SPRING GUSHES FROM A TREE IN SWITZERLAND

A unique water spring flowing from the center of a large tree has caused much discussion in Switzerland. The tree spring is on a farm near Bern and the water is said to be cool and clear, and supplies all the needs of the farm. The spring did not develop until the tree had attained considerable growth and age, and how the spring found its outlet through the trunk of the tree has long been a puzzle to the people of the district.

Four loiterers and one drunk were arrested Wednesday night and arraigned before Mayor T. E. Andrews, this morning. They entered pleas of guilty and were each fined five dollars, being put to work on the streets in default of payment.

BASKETBALL.

Galion Game.

Galion High basket ballers have just about as difficult a task this week as has faced the team to date. Having passed the climax in the Mansfield game, which brought the championship within reach and with Bucyrus stowed away, the lads now face the crucial test of the season in the coming Marion game. On the Marion game hangs the chance of a clean-cut championship or a tie with two other teams. It is hoped that with a two weeks interval since a league game has been played, the team will again play up to form in this vital game.—Galion Enquirer.

CONFIDENCE MEN ARE ROUNDED UP

Several Indictments Are Expected in Chicago.

Chicago, March 24.—Indictment of several persons, one of them said to be a well-known politician, is to be sought, the state's attorney's office announced today, as the result of an alleged confession by Frederick E. Buckminster, arrested recently in Florida after a two-year search.

Buckminster is said to have confessed membership in a band of confidence men whose activities netted more than $1,000,000.

Joseph "Yellow Kid" Nell and James Head, other members of the band, are already serving terms in Joliet prison. Buckminster was under sentence of three years when he forfeited bonds of $115,000 and fled. He was arrested in Florida several days ago.

"The easiest man to swindle in the world," Buckminster told newspaper men, "is the millionaire who inherited his money. He is a natural born sucker."

WOMEN EMPLOYES MUST QUIT SMOKING

West Virginia Board of Public Works Issues Order.

Charleston, West Virginia, March 24.—Women employes in the various state departments now housed in the temporary capitol must lay aside their cigarets in accordance with an order issued by the state board of public works, barring all smoking in the building.

According to John C. Bond, state treasurer and a member of the board, the women and girl employes have been smoking while at work as freely as men. The building, which is constructed entirely of wood, was erected following the destruction of the old capitol by fire, in January, to house the departments pending the erection of a permanent capitol, which the present legislature is expected to provide for.

The anti-smoking order does not affect the legislature, which is holding its sessions in the county courthouse.

Volley-Ball Scores.

The Business Men's volley-ball teams played four games Wednesday evening on the Y. M. C. A., gym. floor. R. H. Ziegler's team defeated A. W. Kette's team, twenty-two to nineteen; while Rodney Hump's team won from H. F. Palmer's team, thirty-one to nine. James Barringer's men lost to John H. Clark's team, fourteen to twenty-three, and Hector S. Young's men scored over Frank B. Morrison's team twenty to eighteen. The teams will enjoy a supper at next Wednesday's game with Hector S. Young as host.

Profit Taking.

New York, March 24.—A continuation of profit taking following the rapid returns in yesterday's trading resulted in declines of from fractions to two points, at the opening of the stock market today.

The Bank of England celebrates this year the centenary of the completion of its great building in Threadneedle street. The building was originally founded in 1732, but it was the famous architect, Sir John Sloane, who in 1821 completed the splendid edifice that is familiar to all visitors in London.

GARAGE SECOND FLOOR SINKS, CARS DAMAGED

Loss at Prospect Estimated Between $10,000 and $20,000.

THIRTEEN AUTOS ARE CAUGHT IN CRASH

Building, Formerly the Central Hotel, Owned by Elwood Almendinger.

Prospect, O., March 24.—[Special]—Ray Gast, residing two and one-half miles south of here, had a gash cut across his scalp from ear to ear, the bones of his right foot crushed and his back injured, while thirteen cars in the Central garage here were badly damaged as the result of a collapse of the second floor of the garage, Wednesday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Gast was on the second floor which is used for storage and a paint shop, working on his own car when the two steel girders supporting the floor gave way, letting him fall to the first floor below. Nine of the thirteen cars were on the second floor and it is thought that the weight of these caused the floor to collapse. All the machines were badly damaged, the loss being estimated anywhere from $10,000 to $20,0000.

The garage, which was formerly the Central hotel, had been remodeled and an addition built on. It was the floor in the new part of the building that collapsed. The garage is owned by Elwood Alemendinger and is managed by William Detwiler. The loss on the machines is covered by insurance.

IN COMMON PLEAS

Stoll Answer Filed.

The answer of Harriet A Stoll was filed in the common pleas court this morning in the suit of Annadelle Thibaut against Thomas R. Smith and Dr. Fillmore Young to set aside the will of Anna G. Salmon. The answer, filed through J. H. Eymon, admits that the answering defendant is a legatee and sets up a general denial of the other allegations. It asks that the petition be dismissed and the interests of the answering defendant be fully protected.

Goes to the Jury.

The $10,000 damage suit of Charles F. Moore against Fred W. Almendinger went to the jury late this afternoon. Moore is suing for alleged personal injuries in an automobile accident on the Smeltzer-Bethlehem road on June 11, 1920 when an automobile owned by the defendant and driven by Clyde Ward and one in which the plaintiff was riding collided.

MARION STONE COMPANY PROPERTY AGAIN SOLD

Purchase Price Said To Be Near $25,000.

KENTON AND SANDUSKY MEN ARE PURCHASERS

Property, Located North of City, Consists of Thirty Acres, with Drills, Horses, Etc.

Property of the Marion Stone company, located just north of Marion on the Bucyrus pike, has been purchased by W. J. Glenn, of Kenton and E. G. Holzhauer, of Sandusky. The deal with the exception of the transfer of the deed, has been closed.

The new owners have applied to the secretary of state for articles of incorporation under the name of the Marion Blue Limestone company and the transfer of the deed is awaiting the issuance of these papers. Two other incorporators, besides the principal owners, are H. A. Stevens, Marion, and Charles Glenn, Kenton. It is expected that Mr. Holzhauer will take over the management of the plant and the new company begin operation shortly after the transfer of the deed.

Capitalization $25,000.

The capitalization of the new company is $25,000 and while the purchase price for the quarry and plant was not made known it is said to be a sum very close to the capitalization of the new company.

The property consists of thirty acres, with drills, cars, horses, mules, wagons, a crusher and other equipment.

Officers of the old company were C. E. Merkel, president; B. F. Waples, vice president; Harley Lewis, secretary, and M. J. Morral, treasurer. The Marion Stone company took over the property less than a year ago from the Marion Ohio Stone company.

COMPROMISES AVERT A STRIKE

mployes of Packing Plants Accept Wage Cut.

RBITRATION PLAN FOUND ACCEPTABLE

ressure of Government Largely Responsible for Settlement Arranged.

Washington, March 24—Prospects of an immediate strike in the packing industry were averted through the mediation of Secretary of Labor Davis

Compromises on the part of the employes in accepting the recently announced wage reduction and on the part of the five big packers in consenting to a six months' extension of the Alschuler arbitration arrangement made possible the settlement after three days of conferences, in which representatives of the packers and employes and Secretary Davis, Hoover and Wallace participated.

Terms of the settlement as agreed to are in brief as follows: Reduction of wages amounting to 8 cents an hour for hourly workers and to 12½ per cent for piece workers; retention of the basic eight hour day and overtime rates as provided in the wartime Alschuler rulings; extension for six months, or until next Sept. 15, of the arrangement whereby Judge Samuel Alschuler shall decide all questions of hours, wages, conditions and adjustments not specifically provided for in the written agreement

Pressure by the government was understood to have been largely responsible for the attaining of the agreement

Statements issued by the participating parties after the signing of the agreement showed some divergence of opinion as to the real meaning of the settlement. Secretary Davis said "It has prevented a strike of very serious consequences."

The employes' delegates, Dennis Lane and Rodmond S Brennan, declared "the agreement is a truce to prepare for war" The packers' representatives, James G Condon and Gary Meyer declared "this will enable the packers to complete plans already announced to adjust between themselves and their employes all matters of mutual interest."

Holding A Husband

BY ADELE GARRISON.

"How ever did you manage it?" I gasped admiringly, turning to Lillian from my rapt contemplation of the gowns upon the bed.

"My early training as a burglar."

Lillian answered carelessly. "You can have me arrested if you like for felonious entry into your suitcase in my house in town for all the accessories. The dress I took from its hanger in my closet, where you had hung it."

"But you have thought of everything," I said, as I hastily laved my face and hands at the old-fashioned stationary washstand in my father's room. "And you had no little time this morning."

"You can do wonders if you travel in a taxi and keep it waiting at the door while you pack," Lillian said, smiling. "I know of no greater incentive to haste than the consciousness of a taxi meter clicking merrily away. You see, I did all my ordering first, then while the things were being wrapped—you know how long they are—I dashed out, and commandeered a taxi. flew up to the apartment, impressed Betty into service—she's a whirlwind and has often helped me pack—and was back in plenty of time to get my bundles and whirl off to the train again. Here—let me help you fasten that."

I had slipped into the fresh blouse she had thoughtfully brought me, but my fingers were clumsy with nervousness. As she brought the refractory fastenings into order she smiled down reassuringly at me.

"Steady, girl!" she said softly. "Everything's going to be all right, Katie, Jim, the house, your husband, and the dinner tonight! Incidentally, let me tell you not one of them can hold a candle to you tonight if you look the way you do now. You are the prettiest thing, Madge! You have all the cards in your hands. Now run along and meet the Dickybird. I'll take these things back to Mrs. Durkee. I have no desire to be present when he first views the debris below. There'll be an ascension worth watching, but luckily he takes it all out in altitude flying, and when he comes to earth again he's peaceful as a summer morning."

She kissed me hurriedly, and hastened away, while I, in my turn hastening downstairs and to my waiting car in the driveway, paid tribute for the thousandth time to her tact and thoughtfulness. She not not only had saved me from humiliation at the evening dinner, but I knew that she had warned me as openly as she dared to pay no attention to whatever vagaries of temper Dicky might exhibit.

I glanced at my watch as I stepped into my car. Thanks to Lillian's help, I had ample time to make the train, and I looked around for some trace of Jim, thinking that I might have time to explain the selling of the house to him, and thus ward off the effect of Katie's certain hysterical appeal to him.

But, even as I saw Jim's familiar limping figure appear at the rear of the house, and prepared to get out of the car, I saw Katie's figure fly down the rear steps and into Jim's arms. Her hair was dishevelled, her whole appearance spelled hysteria. I heard her broken sobbing call of "Oh, Jeem! Jeem!" and with a little shiver of apprehension I got into my seat again and started the car. There was no use trying to talk with Jim now. That must wait until much later.

My clutch did not work smoothly, and I threw the gears into neutral again. As I did so, I heard little Mrs. Durkee call a wild hallo, and I leaned out of the side of the car to see what she wanted.

"Where are you going?" she called, as she ran across the lawn toward the car.

"Down to meet Dicky," I answered, reassuringly. "Every piece is done. Lillian is bringing them over."

"Ours are almost done, too," she said. "Lillian and I will hang them while you are gone. But there are some things I've got to have at the stores. Edith has the list, and she'll go with you. You can order the flowers, also, and bring them back with you if you will——masses of pink roses. You don't mind Edith's going, do you?"

Was I mistaken, or was there the hint of malicious mischief in the little woman's eyes? Dear as she is, she can be distinctly catty on occasions. I wonder if she guessed how very much I did mind Edith Fairfax's presence on this trip to meet Dicky, especially as I had no idea what his mood would be when he greeted me But my response, I flatter myself, was as hearty as any one could make

"Mind!" I said, as if amazed beyond measure. "Are you getting foolish in your old age? But tell Edith to hurry. I've only a few minutes to make Dicky's train."

"Here she comes now," Mrs. Durkee responded, and as I turned my eyes to the graceful, slender figure coming toward me across the lawn I saw that I was not the only one who had donned a fresh blouse in Dicky's honor.

USE IODINE FOR SKIN IRRITATIONS

Pimples and Blemishes Vanish.

If people would only have Iodine in the home at all times for a family remedy, they would nip in the bud many serious afflictions and always have an antiseptic and healing remedy for everyday accidents and ailments, says a woman who speaks after many years' experience in raising a large family.

"Take Eczema for instance," she says, "we used to call it St. Anthony's fire when I was young. The red, irritated swollen skin, the itching and burning are maddening, and Iodine is the remedy."

Physicians are practically unanimous in recommending Iodine. They prefer it in its best form—Lanolated Iodine Compound—which is soothing, healing and powerful, yet never irritates or blisters, and is practically stainless. It is quickly absorbed into the tissues and glands, usually giving prompt relief.

Druggists have this agreeable Iodine ointment and gladly recommend it as it gives unusual satisfaction. Be sure to get Lanolated Iodine for best results.—Adv.

Peterson's Ointment Best for Eczema

First Application Stops Itching of Eczema, Salt Rheum and Piles.

Ends Chafing Distress in Five Minutes

"Live and let live is my motto," says Peterson of Buffalo. "Druggists all over America sell PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents a large box and I say to these druggists, if anyone buys my ointment for any of the diseases or ailments for which I recommend it and are not benefited, give them their money back.

"I've got a safe full of thankful letters testifying to the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment for old and running sores, eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, sore nipples, broken breast, itching scalp, chafing and blind, itching and bleeding piles."

John Scott, 263 Virginia Street, Buffalo, writes, "Peterson's Ointment is simply wonderful. It cured me of eczema and also piles, and it did it so quickly that I was astonished." Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

OUCH! LUMBAGO PAIN! RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Instant Relief with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

Kidneys cause Backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil" from your druggist and limber up. No man can fight the battles of life and hold his own if his blood is not pure, for rich red blood is what strength is based upon. When you see a strong, vigorous man, who never knows when he is licked, you may wager that such a man has coursing through his veins rich, red blood. Many people have thin, pale blood. They are weak, tire easily, become discouraged quickly, and sometimes feel like giving up the struggle. Such folks need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made without alcohol, and sold by druggists in liquid or tablet form.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S PENCIL.

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS.]
[Copyright 1931, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was about to hop away from his hollow stump bungalow to go look for an adventure in the woods or fields he saw Susie Littletail, the rabbit girl, running down the path.

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily!" called the little rabbit girl, waving something shiny at the bunny gentleman. "I want to show you this nice present before I go to school."

"Well, I'm glad it's something nice," thought Mr. Longears. "I was afraid Susie was coming to tell me that Baby Bunty was getting fussy again and that I'd have to play blocks with her."

Uncle Wiggily waited for Susie to catch up to him, and then the little

"Let me see that!" snapped the Bab.

rabbit girl held out a nice, new shiny pencil for him to see.

"My daddy bought it for me at the ten and thirteen cent store," said Susie. "See, Uncle Wiggily, it's a silver pencil, and when you twist the little knob on top, the piece of lead comes out so you can write with it."

Susie twisted the knob on top, and of course out peeped the little piece of black lead.

"And when I get through writing," went on the bunny child, "I twist the knob the other way, and the sharp piece of lead goes up inside the pencil and then it won't break off, even if I play tag!"

"That's fine!" said Uncle Wiggily, and he, too, turned the knob, making the piece of lead come out.

"Now turn it the other way," said Susie. And Uncle Wiggily did. Out of sight went the point! Presto!

"Just as if it had gone to sleep in its little crib!" laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"Just kazactly," said Susie, though of course she meant "exactly."

"Well, well! That's quite a pencil," went on Uncle Wiggily, as he walked toward the hollow stump school with Susie. "I must get me one like that. The points of my pencils always break off in my pocket."

Mr. Longears and Susie had a nice time walking together to where the lady mouse teacher in the hollow stump school taught the animal children their lessons. Susie was quite properly proud and happy over her new silver pencil, with the lead that went in and out, like a slow jumping jack. And Susie was just telling Uncle Wiggily about what she was going to write for her lessons with the new pencil when, all of a sudden, there sounded a loud,

"Wuff!"

"What's that?" asked Susie in surprise. "Did you sneeze, Uncle Wiggily?"

"I made that noise!" said a harsh and unpleasant voice and out from behind a bush jumped the Blue Nosed Babboon. "I came to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears!" howled the bad chap. "And he can't knock a play block castle over on me, as he and Baby Bunty did on the fox!"

"Oh, will nothing make you go away and let Uncle Wiggily's ears alone?" asked Susie, seeing that the bunny gentleman was too surprised to speak for himself.

"No, nothing!" snapped the Bab, as I call him once in a while.

"Not even if I show you my new silver pencil, with the lead that screws in and out like a jumping jack?" asked Susie.

The Blue Nosed Babboon pricked up his ears at this, for monkeys are very curious.

"Let's see that pencil," he said, not nearly as politely as he might have expressed it.

Susie held out the shiny present from her daddy. She turned to the left the knob at the top and the lead slid out. She turned the knob to the right and the lead jumped back.

"Let me see that!" snapped the Bab, and Susie gave him her lovely new pencil. The blue nosed chap turned the knob one way and made the lead come out, and then he turned it the other way and made the lead go back.

"Say! This is great!" cried the Bab. "I'm going to keep this pencil for my own and see how fast I can make the lead jump in and out!" and he sat down and began turning the knob this way and that, watching the lead go in and out, and he paid no attention to Uncle Wiggily.

"Come on! Run!" whispered Susie. "We can get away."

"But your pencil!" said Uncle Wiggily. "The Bab has it."

"I don't care," said Susie. "Your ears are worth more than a bushel of pencils!" So she and the bunny got safely away, leaving the pencil with the Bab. But Mr. Longears bought Susie a new one, and so all was well.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of that Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 542, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about your health. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

Illustrations by Echuins

When me and Jubilee and Banty woke up this morning it was dark and Banty wanted to go home right away so as to see if ghosts had done anything to their canary or anything. He got up and dressed and went out over the roof and I said for him to come back and come out in the barn where I would be milking and I would have my mother set him to breakfast, and he come in the barn just as I was sending Jubilee his squirts and it was daylight and he said that the canary was all right. He said he was not afraid to stay there all night by himself, but he come over and got in by me because he wanted company.

When we got the bunch over by Miss Parmer's Nibs asted him if he seen any ghosts last night and Banty looked scairt and said he did not dast to talk about it. And then everyone wanted him to talk about it, and he said that he woke up in the night and he could hear something breathing and he put out his hand and touched someone's face, and then he said he reached out on the other side and touched something that was all hairy, so he knowed there was two somethings in the bed with him but he could not see anything, and whilst he was telling them that they stood with their mouths open and their eyes bugged out.

I think he was pretty slick. He did not tell a lie either, and then he said that this morning there was no one in his house but him. When he gets to be someone's grandfather he will be almost as good a liar as my grandfather is, and my father says that he is a wonder.

Younise would not speak to me this morning and she was mad at Maggie, and I do not know who told her about the busted water bag. I did not tell her and I bet the teacher didn't. When we got out at recess, Maggie said to me so Younise could hear her: "I would lend you anything, wouldn't I, Thomas Aristides?" I said, "Would you?" She said, "You bet I would." Then I said, "All right, lend me your face till I see if I can scare Jubilee with it tonight," and that made her so mad she stuck up her nose in the air and walked off and Younise laughed at her.

And then Jonesy said right behind me that she thought children were heartless, and that I ought to be grateful to Maggie because she told a story for me yesterday. I said that I did not tell her to story for me. And Jonesy said that I am like all the other men. I felt of my upper lip but there is not any mustache coming on it yet, and I do not wear long pants, but she knows I am a man all right, or I would be if I was a little older and bigger and had a job. She is about the best teacher we have ever had.

Serve with Oatmeal

—To bring the rose tint to women's and children's cheeks.

—To increase men's energy and vim.

Do this, madam, for tomorrow's breakfast. Stew some raisins according to the recipe printed here, and mix with the oatmeal that you serve tomorrow morning.

Do it for the added flavor—to make oatmeal more attractive.

But do it mainly for the food-iron that raisins send into the blood, and for the raisin's mildly laxative effect.

The bloom of youth

The tonic food-iron of raisins helps to bring the bloom of youth to cheeks that perhaps are paler than they should be. Then the sustenance of raisins—1560 calories per pound—gives men and children the energy they need.

For regulating, tonic and nutritious properties combined, one can find no other food that's so effective. The luscious flavor makes it easy to serve stewed raisins frequently, so there's every argument in favor of their daily use.

Try it for a month and see. Look in your pantry now. Begin tomorrow.

Send for free book, "100 Raisin Recipes." But first try the recipe printed here.

Stewed Raisins

Soak raisins over night, pour water off and place in saucepan, putting in just enough water to cover and cook slowly for about an hour, then sugar to taste and add a bit of vanilla. Some raisins do not require much or any sugar.

What Dr. J. H. Kellogg says (Dr. Kellogg is head of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium):

"Raisins are served on the Battle Creek Sanitarium Table every day. A pound of Raisins has within the food cells an equal amount of iron and more than as much food value as a pound of choicest lean steak. The sugar of Raisins is made more delicious than cane sugar, and being absorbed in one-fourth the time required for ordinary sugar. If the digestion people would eat more Raisins and less sugar, there would be fewer digestive troubles, less constipation, less headache, dizziness, less pale cheeks, sallow complexion and longer life."

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins in all your cooking, for they are the finest grown. Made from tender, juicy, thin-skinned California table grapes.

Packed in an immaculate plant in California. Clean, sweet, wholesome, American raisins—the kind you know are good.

THE HUB OF COMMERCE.

Daily Proverb—"We must laugh before we are happy for fear of dying before we are happy at all."

Utah has an anti-tobacco law, but, then, it doesn't take so long to get out of Utah.

Europe is soon to have another great war. If Sir Philip Gibbs knows what he's talking about, but let us hope that in this instance he doesn't.

One of the easiest routes to affluence under present-day conditions is to forego a summer vacation and salt down what you would naturally have spent to take it.

There's always the silver streak in the cloud. The raisins that go into raisin Jack can't be made into raisin pies.

They certainly do things queerly out in Kansas. A day or two ago, out there, a man was fined for snoring in church, and the parson escaped without so much as a word of censure.

From what he states, we get the notion that, for the common good of all, Mr. Lansing very frequently "went along" when his mind didn't.

There's another respect in which the paragrapher has it all over the statesmen and the diplomats: he never is forced to look uncomfortable—and perhaps feel so—in a high hat.

More sickness at hand. Four hundred and seventy-five thousand gallons of wine have just been received from Malaga for "medicinal" purposes.

Not all men possess wisdom, but the man who attends to his business down town and doesn't attempt to tell his wife how to run the home has absorbed some, all right.

Can it be that Lenine's announced turning over of a new leaf was the result of Kerensky's threat to go back to Russia and lead the revolution?

Why so much voiced surprise over the fact that Gabe. D'Annuncio has been unusually quiet since his recent marriage? Isn't it generally conceded that marriage has a subduing effect on a man?

Of course, if the beer ruling stands, we may naturally anticipate bottled beer to supercede the toilet water and syringe displays in the drug store windows.

Now the weather bureau is trying to make us believe the frost of Tuesday night killed the buds on the fruit trees. Can you beat it? Somebody's always trying to take the joy out of life.

There's a disposition on the part of the fellows, who have a weakness for "wet goods" as well as those who would make a livelihood out of handling them, to attribute unrest in this country to prohibition, but we note that there is not a little rest in lands fairly afloat in booze. To us it looks like not only a poor, but also a prejudiced guess.

WEATHER HAS FOOLED THE BEES.

Millions of bees will die before the clover and the apple trees blow in this year, R. F. Kindig, Michigan state inspector of apiaries says, and he is warning the bee keepers all over the country to get busy and save their colonies.

It is a humane act to save the bees, and the very fact that it is necessary draws a sad and striking parallel between these curiously intelligent, curiously-stupid little insects, and man.

The bees, blessed with warm weather, have eaten up their stores of honey unusually fast, and have also speeded the rearing of the new brood out of season. Planning as is their sense of home, true as is their feeling for the good and the poor sources of honey, estimable as is the community life of the hive, the bees err when a new condition hits them.

Men fall short in just the same way. Today, by plenty, they immediately begin to spend their little stores of wealth, instead of laying up something for the morrow. They have pathetic faith that things will turn out all right. This faith in the future is an excellent quality, but too often is not salted down with good common sense.

MONEY WELL EXPENDED.

When an individual who has some regard for his welfare in the immediate future finds his expenses running a neck-and-neck race with his income there are two courses open to him, of which he must take one. He may increase his income, which is not always possible; or he may cut down his expenses, which is sometimes possible only because it must be done.

It is the cutting down of expenses that demands careful consideration. For, if they are regarded carefully, not all items which are commonly classified as luxuries belong in this class. Nor are commonly considered necessities always regarded as such. Some things that may at first sight be held to be expenses may resolve themselves eventually into profitable investments—incomes. There is a matter of taking care of one's health. Whatever money is spent on keeping sickness away, or on reducing the chances of illness in the home, though it may seem to yield no return, is really an investment of the best sort.

In the matter of money spent on education the returns may be even more remote and less tangible. But they come just the same. The cases would be few indeed where an education has not in one way or another yielded high returns on the investment.

And what is true of the individual in this case is equally true of the community. More than the individual is the community likely to regard all but the minimum amount of money spent on education as a questionable expense. We look on it always as if it were expense merely, as if it might not indeed be the best sort of investment the community could make.

It is not easy to prove assertions in this field; we are dealing not with weights and measures, pounds, quarts and the like—but with humanbeings and their reactions. Still, if the words of authorities on these matters mean anything, we find it hard to avoid the conclusion that a more widespread education is the remedy for many of the ills for which we have not yet found a cure.

While it must never be foolishly spent, we must never lose sight of the fact that money devoted to school purposes is a social investment and not an expense.

Noting that a couple of wife's relations are guests at the Ohio State Journal man's home, we may naturally anticipate some exceptionally brilliant paragraphs from day to day now. He always works to better advantage under great stress.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By James Hall Naylor]

THE GIPSY TRAIL.

"The white moth to the closing vine,
The bee to the op'ning clover,
And the Gipsy blood to the Gipsy blood—
Ever the wide world over."

So sings Kipling, in his "Gipsy Trail."

Blood will tell.

Gipsy blood will tell

Gipsy Smith has been holding evangelistic services at a Columbus church. He is an Englishman by birth; and, as I understand, claims to be of Gipsy descent.

The American legion, of Columbus, through Mrs. S. P. Kelly, president of the legion auxiliary, sent Mr. Smith an invitation to speak at a celebration of Washington's birthday, to be held at Memorial hall.

Mr. Smith did not deign to reply to the request. Mrs. Kelly took his silence to mean acceptance. So she had published in the city papers the simple statement that Mr. Smith would address the legion boys and their friends.

Then what did Mr. Smith do?

He sent Mrs. Kelly the following cut note:

Dear Madame—I am compelled to ask you in justice to myself to correct the statement in this morning's Journal in reference to my speaking at your luncheon tonight. You know I have never promised to speak and you had no right to say in the press I would. If you don't put me right with the public then I must take the matter upon myself.

Yours sincerely,
Gipsy Smith.

What was the matter with Mr. Smith?

Seemingly he desired an apology from Mrs. Kelly.

But for what?

Because she had announced that he would speak, without his consent?

Perhaps the good lady made a mistake in so doing.

But had she done Mr. Smith any unkindness?

Had she shown Mr. Smith any discourtesy—any discourtesy, at any rate, as great as he had shown her, in not replying to her kind invitation?

Why was Mr. Smith literally demanding an apology—demanding to be put "right with the public?"

Well, Secretary Willing, of the legion, determined to investigate. He called Mr. Smith over the phone. He didn't get him; but he got an individual who stated that he had authority to speak for him. And this individual who declined to give his name said that the reason Mr. Smith wanted an apology was because:

Mr. Smith is an Englishman and has no sympathy with American holidays, especially that of the man who was instrumental in divorcing England and America.

Can you beat it?

Mr. Smith comes to America to tell and teach Americans how to be good—but he has no use for American holidays, has no sympathy with the celebration of the birthdays of American heroes, doesn't care to speak for American patriotism, and takes it as insult to be asked to address the members of the American legion.

Still Mr. Smith accepts a collection of Washington's pictures—on dollar bills occasionally.

YOUR LOCAL PAPER.

Don't grumble so much about your local newspaper.

Don't carp so raspingly; don't criticize so severely—and unjustly.

Perhaps it isn't all it should be; but maybe it's all you help to make it.

Eh?

The local newspaper needs aid: spiritual aid and material aid; moral aid and financial aid.

See?

Are you boosting—or balking?

The local paper advertises your business—at a reasonable rate.

It advertises the community—for nothing.

It reports the comings and the goings of the inhabitants.

It heralds their uprisings and downsittings.

It prods up the local officials.

It boosts the schools—and brags on the teachers.

It paints the local scenery in glowing colors.

It boasts about the climate; and makes excuses about the weather.

It reports births—and records funerals.

Yea, it says hail and farewell to all: hail—to the comers: farewell to the goers.

It invites new industries; it bids for bigger business.

It strives to make the very best of the worst conditions.

The local newspaper is worthy of loyal support.

And if some little thing appears in the local paper that doesn't suit you—well, don't get peeved.

Above all, don't rush into the editorial sanctum to take the printer man to task.

Don't do it!

OBITUARY

Packer—Steven John.

Since he went home—
The evening shadows linger longer here;
The winter days fill so much of the year,
And even summer days are chill and drear,
Since he went home.

Since he went home—
The robin's note has touched a minor strain,
The old glad songs breathe but a sad refrain,
And laughter echo with hidden, bitter pain,
Since he went home.

Since he went home—
How still the empty rooms his presence blessed;
How touched the pillow that his dear head pressed,
My lonely heart hath nowhere for its rest,
Since he went home.

Since he went home—
The long, long days have crept away like years,
The sunlight has been dimmed with doubts and fears,
And the dark nights have rained in lonely tears,
Since he went home.

Steven John Packer was born at Urbana, July 7, 1902, died March 15, 1921, aged eighteen years, eight months, eight days.

Steven, or Steve, as he was more intimately known by his personal friends, entered Harding High school two years ago and was a member of this year's graduating class.

It was one of the dearest wishes of his life to graduate this year, and until very recently he hoped he would be able to go back to school, make up the work he had missed and share the honors with the rest of his classmates. As he grew weaker, he probably realized the futility of such plans, and prayed he might just be well enough so that his Father could take him away at that time, and he would be spared the heartache of being here, and still not being one of them.

The dear kind Father of all has answered his prayer.

As a student he was painstaking and persevering. He never "gave up" and was so happy, when he succeeded in mastering something difficult.

As a boy, his amiable disposition won for him many friends both in school and out. His happy, winsome smile will long be remembered by his classmates, school friends and teachers. Even when suffering unspeakable tortures of body, he did not complain, but smiled, and patiently hoped he would get better soon.

Steven united with the Methodist church when only twelve years of age, and his religion was a matter of daily practice. Just a short time before the end came he asked his mother to read him "Crossing the Bar." After its reading he said, "Oh, I think that is so beautiful."

On the last morning of his life, his mother realizing the end was near, said, "Steven, you are going home" He smiled, bade them each goodby, and said he wanted to meet them all over there.

With outstretched arms, and the word "Daddy" upon his lips, his beautiful spirit had gone.

It is because we have known him for what he was, that we feel the most fitting tribute we can pay him is to say that his life was like a snowflake, which leaves a mark, but not a stain.

I can tell the "Triple-Sized" wallboard by this name "Cornell" on the edge

BECAUSE I've constructed walls, ceilings and partitions with about every brand of wallboard on the market—and checked the results three or four years later—I've now adopted the rule of picking out Cornell-Wood-Board for every job. I find that Cornell doesn't warp or buckle because it is "Triple-Sized."

Every man and woman I've worked for admires Cornell's handsome "Oatmeal" finish.

My painter friends say that Cornell's "Mill-Primed" surface takes a perfect spread of paint or calcimine without priming. So they always figure to paint a Cornell job for less.

Cornell

For repairing and remodeling, as well as new construction, Cornell is the ideal board.

You can tell the genuine by the name on the edge—the best location for a wallboard trademark, because the panel strips will cover it. The Cornell mark does not deface the panel and either side can be faced into the room—an important feature in matching up dimensions. Leading lumber dealers everywhere supply Cornell-Wood-Board.

Take Evans Triple Phosphates With Meals Gain Several Pounds of Solid Stay-There Flesh

In one month's time EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES puts on several pounds of solid red blooded flesh and changes your weak, run-down, nervous tired body into a strong, vigorous, robust one or money back.

Of course medical men are surprised and many are still unbelievers, but the fact is evident to every up-to-date pharmacist that Evans' Triple Phosphates will produce flesh without violent methods, face creams, daily massage or beauty torture.

In order to assimilate the nourishing food thin people daily take into the body and turn it into healthy, red blood corpuscles, the nerves that control the process of digestion and assimilation must be put in first-class shape, and that is one of the first things Evans' Triple Phosphates does.

Evans' Triple Phosphates comes in small tablet form; a ten days' treatment in each box, and one month's treatment is guaranteed to increase your weight at least several pounds, and in ten days make you feel like a new being, full of ambition, vigor and a desire to accomplish things. Bartlett's Drug Store and all good druggists have agreed to supply Evans' Triple Phosphates and guarantee it to do just what is claimed for it or money refunded.

Even though Evans' Triple Phosphates works wonders in all cases of nervous, digestive and blood troubles don't take it unless you really desire to put on flesh, gain weight.—Adv.

SAY HOUSE WHERE GIRL IS SLAIN IS HAUNTED

The Family Occupying It Can't Stand Ghost Walks.

ERR HENRY BUYS HOUSE; WIFE WON'T LIVE THERE

Does the Earthbound Spirit of Miss Dosha White Roam Through Murder Place?

"Haunted? I say it is haunted, something terrible."

A dark-complexioned woman stuck her head out of the front door. A Star reporter had made inquiry about circulated reports that ghosts inhabited the dwelling, a two-story frame modern house at the southwest corner of Niles street and Creston avenue.

"Please step inside," said the woman at the door, "and I'll try to tell you about it."

"It's something awful—at times," continued Mrs. Err Henry, for Mrs. Henry, a West Virginian, lives in the "haunted house" with her husband, who is employed as a laborer by the Marion Steam Shovel company.

"What kind of noises do you hear, Mrs. Henry?"

Uncanny Noises.

"Oh, awful noises; I can't hardly describe 'em. Pounding on the walls and walking up and down the stairs and screams—all night long, some nights. I am so nervous I don't see how I am going to stay here much longer. Night before last we did not sleep at all. We bought the house a short time ago and wanted to trade for another one, but when I told the man he just laughed at me and said: 'Woman, you're just nervous.'"

The house is the one in which Miss Dosha White was shot to death by her sweetheart, Miller Herman, March 3, 1919.

"We see a woman at times, "Mrs. Henry continued. "We don't see her face; we see her skirt and they say that it's the ghost of Miss Dosha White. I never knew her and I don't know. I don't believe in Spiritualism and I don't want nothin' to do with it, but I do know that there are terrible goings-on around here and I can't stand it much longer. Bertha can tell you more about it than I can. Oh, Bertha, come down, will ye?".

Legless Woman's Story.

And Miss Bertha Hicks, legless and about thirty-five, who lives at the Henry home, came down the stairs in remarkably fast time.

"It's just something terrible," said Miss Hicks as a little boy came up beside her and sat down. Miss Hicks had seated herself on the first landing of the stairway. "It's something terrible. This little boy can see her better than we can. Can't you, dear?" She placed a hand lightly on the boy's head and said: "I saw her once in a room upstairs and once I saw her in the pantry. Once I saw the figure of a man between the sitting room and the dining room, then he disappeared through the wall or somewhere I don't know. Pounding on the walls and walking up and down the stairs and in all the rooms is enough to get on any one's nerves. I don't believe in spiritualism, but I've got a sister in Washington who knows something about it."

Covers Up His Head.

A fifteen-year-old boy seated himself near Miss Hicks. "I tell you I get afraid. I just cover up my head in bed when I hear 'em walkin' around and poundin'. It ain't pleasant, I tell ye."

It was suggested that the next time the ghost appeared Mrs. Henry recognize it as Miss White, for, said the reporter, Miss White probably has a message. "After she delivers the message maybe she won't bother you any more," the reporter made bold to assert.

"My land, man, I never knew Miss White, and I believe if she ever said anything to me I just naturally would fall dead, that all," Mrs. Henry declared. "I have been sick, I had an operation. I can't stand this. When I lived in West Virginia I wasn't afraid of snakes, bears nor elephants but I am afraid to stay in this here house. It's terrible, man, I am telling you."

Going to the Door.

"We go to the door when there is knocking, but many times nobody is there. If I have made one step in this way I have made 4,000 steps in the last two weeks, and I tell you I can't stand it much longer."

Just then there was a noise at the back door. A child was told to go and see who it was. "No, I don't want to," she said, and she remained in the middle of the floor. Finally the fifteen-year-old boy went and brought back the news that Mr. Henry had arrived home for supper.

Mr. Henry, a mild-mannered little man, forty or forty-five, verified all his wife and Miss Hicks had said. "It's something terrible," he declared. "I am not afraid, but it makes the women folks terribly nervous and it ain't very pleasant."

Ghost Seen by Another.

"A blacksmith at the shovel shops told me that the other night he saw a woman walk down off our front porch and around the house and then disappear into thin air." He did not know the blacksmith's name. "It's nothink at all to hear rappings all the time," Henry said.

Mrs. Henry broke in with this observation:

"Dwight Berry came here some days ago and he didn't believe I went down into the cellar and there a rocking chair was rocking back and forth. I slipped back up stairs and motioned for Mr. Berry to come on down into the cellar and he came and he saw the chair rocking back and forth. He was completely taken a-back."

Then the Henrys related an incident that might have taken place they said, on the second anniversary of Miss White's murder. No one knew for sure. All heard a shot under one of the beds upstairs. The shot was louder than the ordinary pistol shot, at least all said it seemed so.

"Of course, we all investigated," said Mrs. Henry, "but what was the use? I tell you we can't stand it here and here's one that ain't going to stand it much longer, either."

Families Won't Stay.

Since Miss White was murdered, for which crime Miller Herman is now a life prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary, it is claimed that the house has been occupied by a number of families who have found it impossible to live there on account of "ghostly noises."

"I know most people don't believe in such things, and I don't believe in Spiritualism either, but if you don't believe about these unearthly noises just come out some night and see for yourself," said Mrs. Henry as the reporter was going away late Wednesday afternoon. "But you'll have to come soon, for we ain't going to stay long."
